

Model Robben Wansley and Two by Two co-chair Brian Bolke

Alice+Olivia designer Stacy Bendet

Art meets fashion at the Rachofsky House

Photos by COURTNEY PERRY/Special Contributor

The Lady Bunny in vintage Moschino

SNAPPED Great Look

Traditionally, the First Look party gives guests a sneak peek at works of art due up for auction a few nights later at Two by Two for AIDS and Art, the highly glam annual benefit for the Dallas Museum of Art and the American Foundation for AIDS Research (amfAR). But, frankly, that's just an excuse. First Look is a slip-on-the-Manolos, kick-out-the-jams good time, as much about people-watching (and showing off your new couture) as previewing art.

This year's party — sponsored by Saks Fifth Avenue and held as always at the Richard Meier-designed Rachofsky

House on Preston Road — had the added attraction of celebrating Moschino, the Italian label known for its cutting-edge fashion wit. Current Moschino design director Bill Shapiro was on hand (looking all of 18). And Moschino's iconic hearts and question marks showed up on everything from models dressed in two decades' worth of the label's greatest hits to paper napkins and cardboard pizza boxes. Even celebrated DJ The Lady Bunny donned vintage Moschino: a cow-print silk tunic circa 1985.

Tracy Achor Hayes

Model Pati Goya in Moschino's geisha dress

Models Chad Rhode and Erica Tracy

Moschino execs Vira Caperci (left) and Michelle Stein

Doss Alexander

Two by Two co-chair Naomi Aberly (left), host Cindy Rachofsky and Moschino design director Bill Shapiro at last week's First Look party

Even napkins bore the Moschino stamp.

John Reoch

Guests Troy McNabb and Maynon Ballow

Makeup artist Loren Holt

Guest Jim Vick